“ Hey Pat, I am so sorry for your loss. From the comments I have read it sounds like Dan was a wonderfully talented man who has been through a long battle and yet has left this life too early. Prayers to you and your kids. I know you have a loving family to be there for you...

“ My sweet brother. He had the most beautiful blue eyes, long eyelashes and cutest dimples. He had the most amazing imagination and was incredibly talented at so many things. You are finally at rest and "safe in the arms of Jesus" but always in our hearts. We lost a beautiful soul but the heavens just gained a beautiful, bright star. Until we meet again....Love always, Jude, Bob, Bryan and Mark.

“ Yes, I loved those beautiful blue eyes. He passed that gene on to Derek.

“ Dan had a very creative mind. He could envision how his wooden projects would come to life. His mind was always creating. Busy thinking of his next project. When Dan and I would meet we would discuss for hours, felt like minutes, projects we were working on and ideas we had for future projects. Dan will be dearly missed at our gatherings. His memory will live on as I create new projects that we discussed in the past.

“ Some of my best memories are of Dan and I sitting in the basement in Bowmanville, planning our next creation. We would toss around ideas, and Dan would draw them out on paper, using his amazing artistic skills. Then, after I'd go to bed, he would work through the night, sawing, sanding, hammering.....making our creation come to life, so that when I woke up, he could surprise me. It was magical.

“ To Pat, Nathan & Derek, & Wes, Courtney & Sunny (Sonata) I am very sorry to hear of Dan's passing. Sunny, I know you are going to miss Grandpa very much. I know you would have loved to go fishing with him, but just know next time your Dad takes you fishing your Grandpa will be watching you from Above.

Pat, I just read your note about how Dan would make his creation so he could surprise you with them. They must have been beautiful because I saw the castle that you both had allowed Sunny to use and it was amazing! You could certainly see the talent.
