“ You were such a kind, sweet man. I will miss your smiling face, passion for music and love for sharing this art with so many people.

“ Alan, I want to share this memory of you. Four years ago, I turned 80 and Big Esther and Rose, OBM, set up a lovely dinner party. You, apparently, were not able to attend as you were scheduled to go salsa dancing; so, instead you sent Nat with a group of jokes to read. I would only suggest that, hopefully, you were a better salsa dancer than a joke writer. The jokes did not arise to the level of Mel Brooks or Woody Allen. As a matter of fact, fortunately, everybody there were good friends or relatives; otherwise they might have shot the messenger. Now, wherever you are, I hope that there is enough instrumental music so that you can salsa dance to your heart's delight. Dance on Alan and rest in peace, except when you're dancing.

Nat's Uncle Victor
