“ Time To Say Good-Bye - Today Mom you are being cremated this was your . I requested to go to crematory and say my last good bye, or at least have a moment with your ashes , but my request was denied...Everyone deals with loss and finds comfort of their loss differently. It is unfair to tell someone when they can get closure or how

Mom I was with you for your last breath and we spent the last week of your life together.I will hold this memory in my heart, till we meet again I love you and understand your struggle. Rest now find peace and comfort as it was always a task for you and I clearly see now why

Love your baby girl
