“ I was with Carl for many years, we separated around 1990. He was born in St. Vincent 1934 if I remember correctly. In his younger years and teens he lived in Venezuela while he and his mother Ada worked as tailors following the oil rigs and providing clothes to the workers. He was very good natured but he was also quiet. Funny story, we went on vacation to St. Vincent. He wanted his hair dyed so we bought the product and I applied it to his hair. Being in the tropics he was outside quite a lot. Well when we got back to Canada his mother shrieked and asked "what have you done to my son?". Well the dye mixed with a lot of sun had turned his hair orange. I will always remember Carl very fondly.
