“ Chauncey was in the same home as my sister, Anita, and while I saw him on other occasions, in the last several years, mostly I saw him when he came with Mak and "the guys" to meet me in Woodstock when my sister was returning to St. Clair from her visits to Windsor. He spoke so proudly and loving of his affiliation with the police saying he was there "to protect people....that's what you need to do and that's what I do".

What a kind and gentle man. I will remember your family tribute and will think of him when I see "the diamond glints on the snow...."

My condolences to family and friends who knew and loved this remarkable man.

“ Everyone who knew Chauncey will remember his love of Police. He would remind others that “I’m a good man, you know?” and “you always have to protect people” and that is what he did! He enjoyed wearing his police gear around the house and would never leave his home without his Police hat on.

Chauncey had a great sense of humour and had a way of making others laugh. His sense of fun included a love for any type of games. His favourites being Wii Sports, crossword puzzles and bubble pop on the iPad. He would play these games time and again, improving his skills along the way. He enjoyed yelling out whenever he hit the bullseye, found the word he’d been searching for or when he hit a high score in his games.

Chauncey was always ready with his quick hands to engage in a round of “draw.” After yelling “one, two, three,” he would quickly raise both hands in the form of a pistol. Of course, he was always too quick for anyone else to win the duel so his opponent would crumble in defeat and Chauncey would laugh and laugh.

Chauncey loved his friends and family deeply and would remind others how much he cared for them by holding their hand (even kissing certain ladies’ hands once in a while) and giving them a smile.

Chauncey was truly one of a kind and has left a lasting mark on everyone he met. He will truly be missed.

“ Chauncey, wherever you are, my thoughts are always with you. I will treasure the last words and smile that you gave me. "Good night sweetheart", its the most precious gift that you could have given to me and for that I'll be eternally grateful. You will always be that bright shining star that I see when I look up to the sky, the brightest star shinning off your police badge on your hat. I miss your great big smile, your handshakes, with a kiss on the hand. You have not left me empty that's for sure! I miss you my dear friend.
