“ Ed and I shared a friendship that lasted through 40 years. We laughed, kibitzed and shared both the artistic and the technocrat sides of are personalities. I wounder how many more people blossomed larger, as did I from our friend ship. Of Ed, I am forever enriched and grateful. He embraced a rare and beautiful spirit.

Thank You My Friend

God Bless You

“ I first met Ed in 1968. We clicked the moment we met and became good friends. We laughed our way through the end of the 60's to the 70's

He had lots of girlfriends, everyone loved him. We learned vocabulary from him that we nicknamed "ED the WORD".

We also nicknamed him "Swizzle Stick:" as he was the life of all the parties we went to.

He believed in my work and always encouraged me. I could not think of anyone better than Ed to illustrate my book "The Little Girl Who Did What!!?"

I adored his humour.

He once sent me a card when I had the flu ...he drew a picture of me puking in the toilet and said "Now doesn't that feel better?". That was Ed - crazy, eccentric and a wonderful sense of humour that on many occasions got me through the darkest times in my life.

Bernard and , with Famous PEOPLE Players, are saddened by the loss of a GENIUS.

I will miss boo-hooing with him and hearing his words of wisdom that would have me lying on the floor laughing.

Ed send me a sign! :)

“ I was fortunate enough to know Ed and to have enjoyed playing one of the guitars that he made. I will remember him with a smile.
