“ When our loved ones pass we reflect (and in many cases regret) on the time not spent together and things we never got to say. We must come to terms with the reality and heartbreak...we cannot focus on the pain, the sorrow or feeling of loss....we need to cherish the memories, the happier times and keep them close to our hearts. I will always remember “Little” Eric’s huge smile, his unforgettable laugh and his love of the outdoors. He will be missed by all that knew him.
