My Dad John (Jack) Masson was WWII RCAF Veteran that served overseas . He is on the far left (the tall man) feeding the pigeons in Trafalgar SQ, London England .. taken during the war . His two friends in this photo did not survive . This was my Dad's favourite photo of his war years . Love you Dad and miss you .. Love Chris

*To my dearest and oldest and funniest beautiful friend Madam Chris Maracle Masson . Please forgive me for being honest with you out of friendship and concern .never meant to hurt or insult you remember I'm a child of and alcoholic I put my foot in mouth with only good loving intentions grl..of coarse I or no one knew the horrific news you endured that afternoon in regards to your father's death as I to can relate as in 2010 as I was at our yearly childhood reunion in honor of our dearest Dar I also endured same plus twenty x more horror than I could share simply out of respect and privacy for my mom and those involved . so my gut never fails me I know you be reading this as is the anniversary of your dear handsome father's death . thanking him for his service 🙏
💖💖💖💖💖💖 I think of you and hoping your safe happy and fine girl and found this beautiful memorial page in 2 seconds and knew I could send you a virtual hug ... It's really me Joe passed Aug 8 with one leg and one eye at 59. He left 3 children which answered my prayers that If I'm taken Mike ,he would have family and now he has a brother and sister 2 aunts and lots of cousins ...K always here Chris wishing you the best life ever ❤️❤️❤️❤️😎😎😎😎oh and (can you believe it weed is legal thank God for the ganja) rip Mr Masson thank you for your girl Chris she rocked peace Chris if your out there in this sick dark web lol*
