Everyone was drawn to Michael just as he was drawn to others. He looked for ways to lend a helping hand or lend a listening ear. You didn't have to be from the same blood line as him to be family!! He treated everyone the same even if he didn't agree with them. I miss Michael as a brother and as a close friend. His departure leaves a huge painful hole. I know I will see him again and we will have all of eternity to catch up with our perspective lives. Love and miss you my brother in Christ.
