“ I still find it hard to believe that exactly 5 years ago we were getting ready for Canada day festivities here in Edmonton.
We had a wonderful day. You/we laughed a lot, until you snuffed your smoke out on the door of my new white SUV.
Thinking about that now, makes me smile.. just because you didn't care.
I remembered, you licked your thumb, wiped the black mark off the door, and jumped back in the seat.. laughing.. telling me to hurry up, get in and don't worry. No marks there now..
lol.. I was mad enough to have stunned ya... but you laughed til I did too.
I also remember how I taught you to make homemade bread.. and the first time you made and baked it yourself, I got a call inviting me down to see your masterpiece loaves. They looked and smelled so good, but when I asked you to wrap me one to take home, your head turned and I got this look! Lol... There's only 3 loaves.. I ain't sharing.. was your response, and you were so serious.
I laughed as we left because you didn't realize I was only joking and wouldn't have actually taken one.. I just wanted to see your reaction.
You were one of a kind.. no doubt about it.
I will miss your silliness and laughter when you were happy. You knew I loved you and you understood the reasons for the times I had to back away, but I always was your voice of reason, and I know u appreciated our talks.
Rest peacefully, your brother and I will make sure your never forgotten!
Love you forever!

“ It was very sad when I heard of Michelle's passing. We went to school together and what I remember the most is her smile. Even though we did not stay in touch, there are certain people that you think of wondering how they are doing. Michelle popped in my mind over the years. Sending my deepest sympathy to her family and friends. May she now find peace.
