“ Deepest Condolences to my Aunt and cousins during this time. Murdock will be missed by all of us. It will be different not seeing him sitting at the table playing solitaire and asking Auntie for his tea. As children and young adults, our favorite place to go visit was their house. We went from having ice cream as children to a beer as adults. Murdock taught us how to swim as young ones and as we got older, we would take his van out to go joy riding (he didn't have a clue). He always had a smile and treated us so well. There was never a dull moment with everyone in and out of the house. Most men wouldn't tolerate the racket, but he didn't mind at all. I like to think he is now at Grandma's house having a meal at the table with Pat by his side. May he rest in peace.
