It is with profound love and sadness we mourn the loss of Neil, a fun loving, sensitive, kind hearted and loyal son, brother, father, uncle and friend.

Broken hearts are shared with his partner and best friend Jennifer Stubbs, sons Tyler Green and Noah Quinn, mother Ellen, brother Ryan (Janice) niece Rachel, nephew Hugh, surrogate parents Edith and Brian Stubbs, his favourite 4 legged friends Charlie and Blue plus too many friends to name.

He is predeceased by grandparents Earl and Eleanor Albert, uncle John Albert and aunt Shirley Lee.

His favourite saying was "What Goes Around Comes Around".

“ Dearborne Av in London, this is where I met my first best friend Neil Graham. He could always run so fast. His laugh and smile were my favourite, and likely why I enjoyed his company so much. I moved away after grade 5 and saw him only a few times (my great regret now), but he still had that same smile. Sounds like you brought great happiness to others and for that my friend you succeeded in life. My thoughts go out to those close to Neil, I'm so sorry for your loss. RIP

“ I knew Neil from Byron Southwood, and I will never forget in grade 5 Mr. Carpenters class, Neil was taking forever to colour a picture. When he was done it was the neatest colouring I had ever seen and I remember thinking how much work he put into it. Such a random memory, but one that I've never forgotten for some reason...He was always laughing from what I remember and I can't imagine what a loss his family must must be feeling. My condolences to you all.

“ Neil and I met in Public School over 30 years ago. The one main thing I remember about our friendship was the laughter. We would laugh and laugh until our stomachs were sore. I'm saddened that we lost touch over the later years, although every June 13th I would think about him and wonder what he was up to. Neil, I will never forget the times we spent together. We were kids, and we just loved being kids. You will be forever missed but never forgotten. To the Graham family, I am deeply sorry for your loss. My condolences to you all.

Only the good die young.

“ Neil always drew people in with his infectious laugh and welcoming smile. A true and loyal friend to those that he invited in. I laugh and smile often reminiscing over some of his jokes, comments and the refreshing perspective Neil brought to various situations. Wild exploration adventures up at the cottage to Just Dance sessions on the wii with Jen and the kids. Time is a very precious resource and one I truly wish Neil had more of and one I wish I used more of with him. Rest In Peace little brother, love always Ry

Hi Ryan, I hope you remember me...Jonathan Finlay, leave right near you on Dearborne Av. Neil and I were best friends from grade 1-5 and then I moved away. I saw him again later in life at a gym in London, and I wish I had connected with him after that. I hope he got to live out some of his dreams, he was such a cool guy and I always wanted the best for him. I hope you're doing well. I really looked up to you too in those early years. I am so sorry for your loss, this one really hurts so I can't even imagine the pain you feel. That smile of his is one I'll never forget. RIP

Neil and I hung out with some of the same crowd in high school. So it was funny when I started dating and later married his brother. I will remember sitting next to Neil and eating Chinese food during family dinners at his Nana and Papa's house. Neil was always broad and his elbow would be in my face the entire meal. I will remember Neil making fun of me for this and that. Just to get arise out of me or make me laugh. I will remember being mad at him for something he had said or done but then he'd envelope you in a hug or make you laugh and you'd remember what a great guy he was. I wish we would have had more time to make memories. I wish life had been different and my kids knew their uncle more. I wish I wish... Rest in piece Neil. You are missed! Love your sister in law Janice
