“ This is the card I put together for Nicki and photocopied to send to her when she first went in to jail. That way she didn't feel so alone and so she knew her friends all cared for her on the outside. I literally took an entire week to msg as many ppl as possible to put their blurbs in and then i did it up proper on the computer with every name and blurb in a different font so u could differentiate who said what. She told me she cried when she read it. She also told me she was in the worst state mentally at the time and that this card was exactly what she needed to keep pushing through.

It was that day that I told her I would always stand by her through thick and thin... that no matter what I loved her.

The best feeling she ever made me feel was when she got out of jail to pick up her stuff and I had kept it all safe... literally everything she left. Every three and four hundred dollars purse, all the shoes she told me to sell, if I was struggling for rent money. I never touched a single thing of hers for rent money.... that's not a true friend in my eyes. She cried to me and said it proves how solid I am and that no one has ever done something like that for her.

Til we meet again....

Rest in Paradise Sister. (from another mister of course)
