“ It's December 3, 2023 & I just found out about Bob's passing. I'm deeply heartbroken. I met Bob on his first day in Kuwait back in 2003. We immediately hit it off & became friends & we stayed friends all these years later. We were both truck drivers & I live in Galveston, Tx. Everytime he came to Houston he'd call me & I'd go meet him for lunch & sometimes we'd sit & talk for a couple of hours. He taught me a lot about myself & he never hesitated to tell me when I was wrong. He was always polite in the way he did it though, he never belittled me & he was usually right. He had a heart of gold. He worried about the people we worked with in Kuwait even after he left & he kept in touch with most of them. When our friend Curtis was killed in Iraq, it devastated him. He called me crying to tell me the news. He even went to Texas for his funeral & afterwards he continually called Curtis's mother to check on her & to see if she needed anything. That's the Bob I knew. I could tell hundreds of stories about how special Bob was, but I don't think I need to do that. I think everyone he crossed paths with already knows that. He was a special person. I'm missing him already. I'm a much better person for having met Bob, getting to know him & I'm privileged to have called him my friend. I love you Bob. Rest in Peace my friend.

“ You are a friend like no other. Even though life had planned different roadmaps for us the footprints of our past will stay alive forevermore. For us, there will never be a goodbye because there is no force greater in this world than the one that is forged in friendship.

So, saying goodbye to a friend like you is like saying goodbye to my soul, it is just not possible, so for now I will just say “Later,” until we meet again.

Bob, you are, and will always be, my irreplaceable friend.

“ Bob was an amazing person to work with, funny, witty and an ear when you needed one. We had a good laugh when I showed him my attempts to crochet a dishcloth and he pulled out his beautiful crochet work on a blanket!!!!
