“Sidney and I worked together at George Brown College in 1973. His endorsement probably got me the job, and his continuing faith in me provided daily hope. He was like that with everyone who was in his orbit- adored by his students and respected and admired by the entire teaching apparatus. They all could sense he was the "real deal", and probably he was the inspiration for more successful lives than we will ever know.

Self-effacing and humble to the end, he will be missed by all who knew him.

With respect and affection, Sheldon Kohn
