“ My best memories of Stephanie are her wicked sense of humour and her writing skills. She told stories and tales from the time she was a child of four, writing later of a variety of animals who were actually those she saw as friends. When i moved to BC she wrote letters including asking me why i had moved to Barbarian Country, as where else would a football team be named after a wild animal. She wrote well and prolifically, assisting Ovid Mercredi and the AFN do a brief to the senate. She was truly a. Social worker concerned with changing systems, serving with Peter Davidson on the ethics committee at Vernon Jubilee hospital. I will miss our sister talks, and i am grateful that i was able to say goodbye. Now she is home entertaining others and showing them that God works in mischievous ways. Jane
