

Terry Logan

May 21, 2021

On Wednesday, October 20th, 2021, we will lay to rest our friend Terry Logan who was a man of extraordinary musical talent. As a jazz guitarist, pianist, B3 organist and singer, Terry will be remembered for his brilliance, his unique voice and style, his unending musical creativity and his joy in performing. He will also be remembered for his generosity in sharing his knowledge and musical wisdom with other musicians. His genius was an inspiration to many. Terry made every song his own by masterfully taking the composition a step further and infusing each note with the remarkable Terry Logan sound and spirit. The gift of transporting his audience came naturally to Terry. Living fully in the moment with his music was contagious and an experience not easily forgotten. Although the profound connection to music was an innate part of Terry, he worked hard continually honing his craft. This lifelong learner never compromised his musical integrity. Those who most appreciated the beauty of his playing know that the Toronto jazz scene suffered a great loss in his passing last May.

A down-to-earth friend of many, Terry, with his eccentricities, his joie de vivre, and his exuberant sense of humour, will be missed deeply. As one friend stated, "When Terry laughed, it was music as well." Our lives have been touched by Terry Logan's powerful life force and rare musical gifts. Rest in peace Terry. We will dearly miss you.

“ I'm so sad to read this news of Terry's passing. Terry gave his heart and his bandstand to anyone who wanted to play and learn in Toronto. I'm grateful of the times he allowed me to sit in with him during his gigs around town. Rest in power, Terry.

“ The first time I heard Terry play was at Meyers Deli in Yorkville. My plan was to grab a quick lunch and read my book, but once I was seated, I noticed that this amazing musician was playing a synthesizer and singing to a practically empty room. What struck me was that he was giving it his ALL as if the place was packed. You could tell he was just enjoying the music so much. I never opened my book at all that afternoon. The music was an unexpected gift, and Terry's radiant smile was unforgettable. He was lit from within.

Little did I know that years later our lives would intersect. My husband was a devoted fan and friend and Terry ended up playing and singing at a couple of our significant family events.....his musical talent elevating the occasion and adding that same joy that I witnessed years before at Meyers Deli. May you rest in peace Terry. You were given rare musical gifts and you spread joy with them. You will be missed.

“ I remember first hearing Terry playing afternoon matinees at the Zanzibar near Yonge & Dundas in Toronto. He was a musician that I truly admired and looked up to. Terry was the consummate professional and well respected by Hammond B3 players. He was a multi-instrumentalist and Singer a deadly combination. Any up and coming young musician in downtown Toronto had to know Terry. He will certainly be missed.

“ Terry, I miss you and you will always be in my heart. From Johnny G's to jazz festivals, I had the pleasure of making art with you. You had a way of playing behind me that was instinctual, and I never heard anything I didn't like. You were always the perfect soft-spoken gentleman to me...and you were easy to laugh. Your devotion to music and to exploring its universe were a teaching. My friend, you're now a star in the Heavenly Universe, and I'll feel your glow forever my heart. Until I see you again...
