“ To my Beautiful Theresa
I'm getting slowly better but I have a lot of times don't know what to do with myself. I don't know where to turn or what to do. I just stop and wonder what I should do at this minute then realize I'm missing you so much! I'm looking for you always, when I'm driving, walking or whatever. I'm trying to find you again, I love you so much and I goes right to my soul. All I know is my life has been so painful without you.

“ Happy Anniversary Honey! Our Special Day! This day years ago we got married in Edmonton Alberta. My beautiful bride in her white wedding dress! I can remember it like yesterday. Remember the woman priest we had? She was good. I wish I could have given you the most expensive wedding of your dreams but you as well as I would have thought it was a waste of money. The important factor is we became one together with God. I love you as much as I did on that very day which is uncountable. Hi my love, been rough the last few months. I can't stop thinking of you. The memories with you flood into be on a daily basis. I cry and think of them and try to relive what I was thinking and feeling when we were together. It's the same scenario no matter which memory. That it how much I've always loved you at all times and felt so lucky to have you by my side in life. Your sense of humour, your cute little laugh. Just everything about you I love so much. I really miss you and no one will ever be able to take your place. Some people are loved and perfect for a lot of reasons you were perfect for me in all reasons . Like I have always said " you were my everything " and still are. I hope you are by my side at all times now and are putting your arms around me . I love you forever, you are my one and only soulmate. Will will always be that. All my love " baby finger" my love of my life. Always yours forever your husband Fraser xoxoxo xoxoxo ❤️❤️❤️🥺🥺🥺

*My Dearest Theresa , I cry every day missing you. Every thing I come across reminds me of you. I went out into the backyard today and the mint you planted is growing like crazy. I picked a leaf 🌿 and smelling it and thought of when you would use your little hands and work so hard making you Vietnamese rolls with the ricepaper, dried pork, shredded lettuce,ginger,and mint leaves from the garden. Roll them up and dip them in fish sauce mixed with shredded carrots. You would make loads of them for us while we ate you rolled more just for me as they were so light and wonderful like you. I cried thinking about all the things you did for me because you loved me so much. I am so heart broken. Times I just feel like jumping in the car and hoping I'll find you again like it's all been a bad dream.i love you so much it hurts every day. Sometimes I feel like I'm dying inside because the loss of you is so great. No one will ever fill me like you did. I miss you so, your soulmate, your husband, your Fraser always. “ Theresa La used to work in the tax department at Wood Gundy with Yan Arkema, Dave Cieslowski and Cindy Crane.

Theresa knew her stuff. She was a fast talker and she had a sense of humour, somewhat nutty and cute. Just the way I like them. Theresa was a tremendous help to the advisors who were always full of simple, sometimes complex tax questions.

When she left Wood Gundy for TD Securities I was heart broken. My friend and personal tax slave had left me. No more fun and games mixed with business. (The perfect mix in my opinion.) You can call anytime she said. We went to lunch together in the ensuing years. Back when you could still go for lunch.

One day a friend of mine, who like Theresa I considered to be an exceptional human being in every respect, called me and asked if I knew of any financial planner positions that would interest him. I said, I will call a friend. I called Theresa. I asked are you looking for anyone? Does he speak French, she asked ? No, says I. Not interested, she said. I asked, would you do me a favour and just see this guy? He's pretty exceptional. Oh, well alright, she said. She hired him after 30 minutes. I called her back much later in the day. I said, well? I hired him, says she. Was I right? Yes you were right. Oh God ! she added, totally exasperated.

She was such a card. In a word, she was beautiful.

I will miss her very much.

I just spoke to Dave Cieslowski and he was shocked to hear of Theresa's passing. He sent his heartfelt condolences to Fraser and family. He remembers her as zannie and genuinely caring person. (Ditto.)

“ I have known Theresa for over 6 years now and I can honestly say she was one of the nicest person that I have ever met. She was always so bubbly and cheerful and made the office and this world a truly better place. I don't believe that she had a bad bone in her body. She put up a brave fight and I am so sad that she had to leave this world so early. Her presence in the office will definitely be missed.

Fraser, I am so sorry for your loss, I can't imagine what you are going through. Although we have never met, Theresa has always talked very highly of you and was grateful for all the support that you have provided her over the years.

“ Theresa and I met at TD quite a while ago and I'll miss her a lot. We got together for lunch frequently and in a lot of ways, Theresa was like my work mom. when we got together, we always started with what I called "the card" and then she would want to hear about the good, the bad and the ugly....she always provided me with the best advice and shoulder when needed.

Fraser, having lost my first spouse a few years ago, I understand the pain you're going through right now. I can tell you though that Theresa will be watching over and protecting you...and hopefully keeping my first spouse and mom, company.

“ So sad to lose Theresa, my dear friend for 20 years. Although Theresa is older than I but she always looks after me like a big sister. Always kind and considerate, willing to share her best with her friends, Theresa is both smart and beautiful, she lives herself a full life as she enjoys life to the last extent, never gives up. From her mouth I heard great story of her beloved husband who was by her side fighting against the illness,. Theresa was gifted with her spiritual understanding of her religion., feeling good and satisfying in her living. She will be deeply missed by all of us. Her attitude towards life has inspired many of us.
May the fond memory of her beautiful face and character console the sadness of losing your beloved wife, Fraser.
May Theresa rest in peace now

“ My last exchange with Theresa was about the office she and I would have shared. After recently moving in, I straightened out her things (which had been plopped down by the movers), found her TD office-plate, put it up outside with mine and sent her photos. Then: Theresa: Thank you for the photos. Wish I was there working with you soon.

Stewart: Me too!

That was the last time we communicated. It's heartbreaking now to look at her empty chair.

Theresa welcomed me warmly on my first day, over two years ago. She was always available to listen and help however she could. It became clear she had so many friends at TD by doing just that. She was someone who could always be trusted to provide straight, sensible answers. She had a big, beautiful heart and a strong sense of integrity.

Aside from work, we often spoke about our beliefs. She was a Buddhist. I grew up a Preacher's Kid. We talked about meditation and prayer, her tradition's chanting practice and the choir I sing in. She invited me to the to join her and some members of her community in the Meditation Room at her home – so I could fully understand. Regrettably, that never happened.

Though I am happy to have visited with her last fall. She was struggling, but she was as feisty and funny as ever. It was good to see her smile, hear her laugh, and feel her hug...one more time. It was also good to finally meet her husband, Fraser. The love between them was clear. He was taking time off from work to give Theresa the 24/7 care she needed.

Her kindness obviously extended beyond work. When I arrived there was one friend visiting, and as I left another friend came in. Theresa was a rare and special soul.

I just buried my beautiful wife today in her home town of Edmonton, Alberta. I was with her supporting the 5 years she fought cancer, when things really started going down hill I took time off work, Oct,4,2018. I was with her 24/7 all through the day and up most all nights. She died in my arms January, 31,2019 . Three days after my birthday in hospital, we had been in the hospital for 9 days, I stayed with her 24/7 there too. Three days before she passed , she with her psw Laura-Lee planned a Birthday Party for me. We had never done that before as anytime we wanted anything we would just go out and buy it. I told Theresa don't worry about it ( how could I even think about it when my wife was in this shape) but Theresa insisted in a very shallow voice and said you have done so much for me let me do this for you. So I respected her wishes, it was a double edged sword for me, and for her I enjoyed it though I cried inside. When Laura followed Theresas instructions she also picked up a couple of helium filled foil Birthday balloons, Theresas face and eyes lit up I'm pleased wonderment through her sickness. Theresa was happy her plan came together even better. Theresa couldn't eat anything but ordered for myself and Laura. That is and will be the only Best and most meaningful Birthday I've ever had. I stayed with Theresa after the funeral and rode in the hearse with her to the burial site. Its been a long 5 years but if she asked me to do it again? Id jump at it! You see if you really love ❤️ someone it's not work. We have always had a Great Marriage and we are and always will be Soul mates and Best Friends, you see ,, she was my everything. Rest In Peace my love TIL I'm with you again. Fraser xoxoxo
