“ It's been 5 years without you. Seems like yesterday that you were here with us. Another Christmas is upon us and this year will be the strangest one yet. You are missed more than I could ever explain. It's like every memory of when we were kids is recorded on a tape that plays in my head when I think about you. I remember you most in your late teens, so active and passionate about so many things. Everything excited you! You were a kid at Christmas. Those are the best memories, the years you blew me away with gifts that surprised me. Much like myself and my kids, you loved seeing the faces of the ones you were giving too. That's what it's all about. Really.
